THE EVENING TELEGRAPH.

10 CENTS PER WEEK. DIXON, ILLINOIS, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1892. NINTH YEAR, No. 2832

HAVE ARRIVED !

New Stock of Carpets,

New Brussells,

New Ingrains,

BEAUTIFUL STYLES,

Never So Nice,

Never So Cheap.

S. G. AUSTIN & CO.

—The ward workers are not so conspicuous as of old.

—Republican managers claim a decided majority in Dixon.

—A big vote is being polled. The new Australian system is working like a charm.

—Wm. Mulligan was the first voter in the first precinct. He set a good example by voting for Harrison.

—A special dispatch informs THE TELEGRAPH that the voters of York state are enjoying good weather.

—As we go to press, the votes in three precincts were as follows: First, 485; Second, 491. Third, 308. The Second is the banner precinct.

—No man today should be guilty of a neglect to vote, but by the agility with which the emissaries of both parties are rushing through all the precincts, we should judge that it is the intention to "let no guilty man escape."

Uncle Tom's Cabin Thursday night.

—J. Gordan, of Polo, is here this afternoon.

—J. K. Goltman came up from Sterling today.

—T. D. Mills, of Topeka, Kas., is in Dixon today.

—F. A. Keith, of Freeport, was in our city last night.

—W. J. Day and W. Ward, of Normal, are here on business.

—Hugh Miller is taking the business course at the Normal.

—J. E. Purcell, of Clinton, was at the Nachusa this morning.

—Mrs. Wm Trissel is convalescing from her recent illness.

—Miss Eva Franklin is now clerking in the Fair dry goods store.

—John Vails little girl, aged about four years, died last night.

—The new return postal cards are now passing through the mails.

—Will Kent and Sol Tompkins are enjoying a duck hunt this afternoon.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Pascher, of Princetown, are at the Nachusa House today.

C. W. Brewster, the genial young attorney, is home to vote a good Republican ballot.

—The election returns will be received at the Dixon Club rooms tonight for the benefit of members.

—Will Barge, Moritz and Ed. Rosenthal returned to Chicago this morning to vote in the Garden city.

—Mrs. H. E. Crouch returned from her wedding tour for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Flint.

—Dr. F. E. Morris, W. F. Hilles and John Ripley, having voted started on a trip down the river today.

Constable Michael Kelley, accompanied by Liveryman Thomas Gowan came down from Oregon last night on official business.

—Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Kuhn, who have been the guests of Mr. and Wm. Utley for several weeks, have returned to their home in Rome, N. Y.

—John Barge is home and early this morning mark'd his ballot that little Ruth may play for the next four years in the White House nursery.

—D. S. Horton has received a specimen ballot that is to be voted in Pennsylvania. It is considerably different from the one used in this state and a great deal more complicated.

—The fall and winter term opening today was the most auspicious in the history of the college. Everything is crowded to its utmost capacity and when all the students arrive extra accommodations will have to be provided.

—Among the places where you can hear the election returns tonight are at the Dixon Club, the Republican and Democratic club rooms, at the Merchants Carnival in the opera house and at Ed Malloy's saloons.

—Miss Eunice Thompson had charge of the County Clerk's office, and conducted the business quite efficiently, yesterday while her father and his deputies were traveling through the county delivering the ballots to the various election boards.

—W. F. Hilles one of our enterprising young business men, has opened an insurance office in the Reilly block across the hall from the rooms of Drs. Wynn and Paine. Mr. Hilles has been in the life insurance business for some time and is now agent for first-class insurance companies.

—This has been a fine day for election and if our side is by an fortuitous circumstance defeated we shall not charge it up to the gentleman at the head of the weather bureau. Don't think for a moment that this is any sort of a confession of fear, for the election will be over when you read this paper.

—We have all been scolding the manager of the Opera House, F. A. Truman, and charging that the entertainments he gives us are not sufficiently "high toned." The patronage received by Gilmore's Band, a truly high-tone concert, clearly indicates that Mr. Truman is correct in his business ideas. He proposes, we presume, to make the Opera House a paying institution; and that is business.

—The sixth annual State Convention of the Illinois Societies of Christian Endeavor will be held at Decatur, Nov. 17th to 20th. A fine programme has been arranged by the State Executive Committee. The speakers include many eminent clergymen and christian workers. The railroads have made a rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in the state. Fully one thousand delegates were present at the last State Convention, and it is expected that many more will be present at the Decatur meeting, which promises to be one of exceeding interest and power.

—The Sterling Gazette tells a funny story of a fashionable boarding house keeper on Grove street. The landlady awoke about midnight, and mistaking the hour for one alarmingly near breakfast time, hurriedly arose and with lightning speed prepared the morning meal, and had her boarders all down at the table before one of them by reference to his watch discovered that it was not yet one o'clock. That early breakfast was postponed and the household retired to resume their interrupted slumbers.

—Ixion tied to the wheel and Tantalus suffering with thirst did not undergo torture in their Tartarean experiences to be compared with those of the man who sat behind the calcium light and two large opera hats at the carnival last night. The mechanical obstruction to a view of the stage was bad enough, but those umbrella hats almost entirely hid the stage performance. When the exercises were over that individual drew a sigh of relief and bought a ticket for tonight's entertainment that he might get some idea what the carnival was like.

THE GRAND CARNIVAL.

A BRILLIANT ARRAY OF YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

An Artistic Assembling of Kaleidoscopic Colors and a Musical Mingling of Sweet Sounds Produce a Pleasurable Evening's Entertainment.

St. Agnes Guild is to be congratulated on the entire success of the entertainment given under its auspices at the Opera House last evening. The house was comfortably well filled with an audience that gave continuous evidence of their pleasure and delight throughout the entire evening. An entertainment could not fail of being enthusiastically received into which entered so largely those elements for which Dixon is conspicuous—musical ability, youthful beauty and artistic taste. Everything conspired to enrapture the senses and captivate the audience. The leading feature of the performance was to a great many a rich surprise, for they had scarcely expected such perfection to spring from such brief preparation. The managers, however, are young gentlemen of experience in such matters, having with the assistance of local talent given successful exhibitions of a similar character in many cities throughout the country, and are continually picking up and perfecting new ideas.

Before the curtain arose the Fargo Shoe Factory full Band gave as an overture, Ed Kiesler's "Du Louise Charackcuscuck," a striking selection full of harmonious contrasts and which called into exercise and displayed to advantage the ability of the leader, Joseph Bullinger.

Wm. Steel then stepped to the front of the stage and in his rich, clear voice gave that touching solo of Verdi, "In the light of her Sweet Glances." It was artistically rendered and duly appreciated.

Mrs. C. W. Boucher gave a reading, the curse scene from "Leah, the Forsaken," a fine dramatic production of Daly. It represents a Jewess who for love has given up her people to follow her christian lover, whom she discovers to be false and wedded to another. The scene chosen affords an almost unequaled opportunity for the portrayal of the intensest passions of the human soul, and grandly was the piece rendered by Mrs. Boucher, who showed herself to be a masterly delineator. Her action and elocution were as near perfect as we frequently witness. The whole scene, with Dana Johnson as Rudolph, was given with great dramatic effect.

Miss Lulu Harned rendered on the piano a solo from Faust, in which she exhibited much skill.

The first decided hit which captured the house by its humor was the "Cobbler's Chorus" from Ali Baba, wrongly entitled in the programme "Gobler's Chorus." This was sung by C. W. Schick, assisted by Messrs. Steel, Bosworth, Harned, Hawks, Godfrey and Hilles. The make-up of each was individually perfect and collectively irresistably funny. In perfect contrast and yet each a perfect type of the traditional cobbler, as the seven men in single file made their entree, carrying their seats, their hammers and lasts, they were greeted with rounds of applause; and at the close of their somewhat Bachanalian song they were enthusiastically encored. The tapping of hammers on lasts, in perfect time, gave a pleasing and unique accompaniment to their fine voices.

The second part of the performance was opened by Smith's orchestra with a very pleasing selection, "Evening Slumbers Serenade," given with fine effect.

Then came the preliminary scenes of the carnival, in which over fifty firms were represented by young ladies, indicated as follows:

The display was first made individually, to give the audience an opportunity of close inspection, and enable them to decide which firm was most appropriately represented; a general expression of which by ballot was afterward taken to determine to which young lady should be awarded a souvenir spoon. While some of the costumes were more striking than others, all were so nearly equally appropriate, that a choice on that single point was very difficult. Most of the young ladies entered from the right wing, bear

PRESIDENT'S WIRE.

The Metal Line that Will Tell Harrison His Fate.

ITS HISTORY AND GREAT UTILITY.

A Corner of the Executive Mansion that Is of Much Interest One Night in Every Four Years—Miller and John W. Foster to Help the Republican Candidate Figure Out the Result—Some Interesting Gossip—Gotham on Election Eve—Final Appeals and Estimates of the Head Centers—Figures at Chicago—Field Notes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The president will read his fate in the telegraphic bulletins which will flash over the special wires leading into the telegraph room at the White tonight. It is an interesting place, that House telegraph-room. It was over the wire from the telegraph office to this room that the news of Cleveland's defeat was carried to him four years ago. A little group of his followers and friends stood about him and read the returns, while Dan Lamont, the faithful private secretary, tabulated them and figured out results. Little by little the truth became more manifest and still more plain that New York had gone Republican.

He Heard from New York.

Then it was that one of Mr. Cleveland's intimate friends is reported to have said, encouragingly, "Wait until we hear from Illinois," and it was in reply to him that the president made the famous epigram: "Illinois! H——! I want to hear from New York." He did hear from New York, and the news was so discouraging that the little gathering of the women of the cabinet circle, who had come together to be ready to offer their congratulations to the new president before any one else should have a chance, broke up early, leaving an atmosphere of intense disgust at the White House.

At the Other End of the Line.

It was after 2 o'clock when the president ordered the telegraph wire closed, excused himself to his friends and went to bed. He had known since 10 o'clock that New York had gone against him and that the election was lost. Half an hour before Grover Cleveland laid his head on his pillow in the White House, Benjamin Harrison had retired for the night in his modest home in Indianapolis. All of the bulletins were sent to his house by messengers and he was pretty well informed by private dispatches of the way things were going. At 2 o'clock in the morning Elijah W. Halford called up the president's house by telephone.

"Lige" Probably Didn't Swear.

He had been all through the returns and he wanted to tell General Harrison that in his judgment he was elected and that the Journal would announce his election in the morning. Mr. McKee, General Harrison's son-in-law, answered the 'phone. Halford expected to find General Harrison waiting for late news. Well as he knew him he had an idea that this occasion would excite him a little and make him wakeful.

"Is the general there?" he asked.

"No; he's been in bed and asleep for an hour," said Mr. McKee, cheerfully. And it is very likely that Halford, being limited to his choice of exclamations, remarked to the telephone receiver, meditatively: "Well, I'll be—hanged."

Something About the Telegraph Room.

The telegraph room at the White House was established at the beginning of Hayes' administration. It is a little room in the northeast corner of the second floor, and Mr. Montgomery, who is the operator, is also required to assist in the executive correspondence and keep the presidential scrap books. The room is an important adjunct of the executive office. It enables the president to make direct connection with any telegraph point when an emergency requires him to consult with any of the chief executives of the states, or to take personal action in some great emergency like the Johnstown flood. And the White House wire has been used to send to the country any piece of news concerning the president which was of great moment.

It Is Quite an Institution.

The first great emergency in which the White House telegraph line was brought into use was the great railway strike in 1877. President Hayes was constantly in communication with all parts of the country during the great strike. When President Garfield was shot the White House wire carried bulletins right from the sick-room to the people of the country. President Cleveland used the wire freely at the time of Mr. Arthur's death, and also at the time of the death of General Grant, to make arrangements for showing proper respect to their memory. At the time of the Johnstown flood President Harrison was in the telegraph room at the White House night and day taking steps to relieve the sufferers, so far as the executive could take action.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE TONIGHT.

John W. Foster and Attorney General Miller Get Back to Town.

It was expected that the president would be alone—so far as his official family was concerned—when the telegrams began coming in tonight. Unless, indeed, Secretary Tracey, who, like the others went home to vote, took it into his head to vote early and then run over from New York. But Secretary of State Foster has secured a pair with the assistant attorney general of Indiana, and will sit up with the executive. Yesterday afternoon also, Attorney General Miller surprised everybody by making his appearance. When questioned as to the reason of his return, the attorney general said: "I thought that I might be of more use here than in Indiana, in case of any unusual events occurring anywhere."

Doesn't Look for Trouble.

Asked if he really anticipated trouble he replied that he did not; that he relied on the good sense and patriotism of the people in charge of the polling places to prevent violations of law and breaches of the peace. He added that the United States marshals were supposed to be good citizens and their instructions explicit—not to be aggressive, nor to provoke hostilities. He felt sure that deputy marshals would not invade the polling places without cause or endeavor to shout a wanton exercise of authority.

His Excellency Hardly Ever "Cusses."

Whatever the result of the contest, the president will take it as he takes most things—coolly and philosophically. He is not an excitable man and it takes a great deal to arouse him. It is said to be of record that he has used profane language on but two occasions in the whole course of his life. One of these was at the battle of Resaca, where he is said to have adjured a Confederate gunner with the words, "Come out of there, you d——d rebel," and to have emphasized this adjuration by yanking the gunner over the breast works behind which he was stationed. General Harrison was very much ashamed of this little lapse, and he called his officers together and apologized to them.

Will Unravel the Returns.

During tonight, until the result is known, or until it is evident that it will not be known, the president and his friends will put in the time grouping and comparing the returns. As these returns come to the president they will be grouped and compared with those of the last presidential election to a certain extent. But to appreciate the value of each of these statements it is necessary to know something more than the bulletins can give. In New York state particularly the locality in which a change occurs gives it much of its value. The president has a thorough general political knowledge and the bulletins will speak a very simple language to him.

Blaine Calls on Harrison.

The president, beyond receiving a call from Attorney General Miller, was almost alone all day. His chief and most distinguished caller otherwise was Mr. Blaine, whose visit stirred up no small amount of gossip. The ex-secretary walked over from his residence in Lafayette square to the White House shortly before 4 o'clock, and was at once shown into the president's room. The call may have been simply one of personal condolence, or it may have had a political import. No authentic information can be obtained on either point.

MORE FIGURES ON NEW YORK.

Latest Estimates of the Leaders of the Two Parties.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Last night certain figures were published claiming to be the latest estimates of both parties here in New York state. According to the Democratic arithmetic Cleveland's majority in all the counties will be 99,650, while they concede the Harrison ticket 73,550, giving the Democrats 26,000 supremacy in round figures—this on a basis of 68,000 in New York county.

The Republican Estimate.

The Republicans have also indulged in figures, and according to their estimates they find 92,000 as against 86,000 for their Democratic brethren, thus giving Harrison the state by 6,000. There has been much talk about the danger of trouble at the polls and a conflict between the state and federal authorities, but in most instances the law so clearly defines the duties of both sides that it is now generally admitted that there will be no discord and that much of the talk has been political claptrap.

Issued Their Final Appeals.

Carter and Harrity issued their final appeals last night. They each urge the voters of the country to be sure and deposit their ballots, and each claims that victory is certain. Each declares that he possesses information from all the doubtful states that puts it beyond doubt that his party candidate will carry them, and it may be set down briefly that according to these last bugle calls there will be two presidents elected today.

Betting at New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—At the Hoffman House last night the odds remained as they had been, 9 to 10 that Cleveland would win, and 2 to 1 that he would carry the state. A good many large bets were made. It was found that Republican money was more plentiful than Democratic on the general result, but odds of 2 to 1 on the state went begging.

THE BETTING AT CHICAGO.

Money Laid On the Illinois Result—Fifer Men Giving Odds.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—There was an abundance of political excitement around the hotels yesterday which found vent in the majority of instances in an offer to bet. There was betting in every form; betting on Harrison, on Cleveland, on New York, on Indiana, and on Illinois. These were the favorite states, the wagering in the last instance being confined to the gubernatorial contest. One of the Democratic central committee men laid a sum of $750 on Altgeld against $1,000 on Fifer. The same gentleman had another $750 to lay at the same terms.

Mostly on the Majority.

So far as these two candidates are concerned the betting was laid in most cases on the question of majority rather than the absolute result. The Sherman house lobby was crowded with men who wished to lay anywhere from $10 to 41,000 that Fifer's majority will not reach 10,000. Several Democrats from Indiana were also putting up even money on Cleveland carrying that state. Joseph Fish laid even $4,500 on Cleveland at the Richelieu. The money was really taken by a Republican enthusiast.

Claims in Cook County, Ills.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The two chairman of the two committees—Hopkins, Democrat, and Badenoch, Republican—are on record as to how Cook county will vote today, and they don't differ materially—except as to the man who will get the majority. That is to say, they each claim the county by about 15,000.

Both Parties Claim Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 8.—The chairman of both the Republican and Democratic state central committees were interviewed by the United Press last night as to the outcome of the election in the state. Mr. H. E. Benton, chairman of the Republican committee, said that his party was sure of a safe plurality for both the electoral and state tickets. Chairman Davis, of the Democratic committee, said that he was absolutely certain that the Democratic electoral ticket in this state would have not less than 2,000 majority.

Republicans Whooped It Up.

ATCHISON, Kas., Nov. 8.—Republicanism was rampant in Atchison last night. It was the closing rally of the campaign. There was a big parade by the Young Men's Republican club, the Harrison and Reid club, composed of the old men, flambeau club, bands, etc. Senator B. W. Perkins addressed the meeting held under the auspices of the Young Men's club, and Chief Justice Horton and W. B. Townsend, the colored orator of Leavenworth, the one held by the old men.

Had a Grand Windup.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Nov. 8.—The Democrats and Republicans wound up the campaign here last night. The Republican meeting was very successful, Chickering Hall being crowded with voters to hear B. K. Bruce, Lucien Baker, Colonel D. R. Anthony and the local candidates. The Democrats held out at Turner Hall to an audience not so great in numbers and enthusiasm as the Republican meeting.

Will Resign After the Election.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Mr. A. B. Nettleton, of Minnesota, assistant secretary of the treasury, who has been talking about resigning for some months, has at last announced his intention of doing so after election in order to give his attention to private business.

ONE POINT AT ISSUE

Pith of the Dispute at the Crescent City.

NON-UNION LABOR THE DIFFICULTY

The Strikers Demands Its Proscription and the Employers Refuse Even to Discuss that Matter, but Will Arbitrate the Other Questions—Militia Still in Readiness and Governor Foster on the Ground Trying to Work a Compromise—Planters with the Merchants.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—The general strike is more general than ever. The decision of the Typographical union to join the striking phalanx nerved the other bodies which were neutral in the matter and all of the labor unions which signed the call for the general strike are now out except the cotton laborers. The latter are a most important part of the Amalgamated Council, but in the face of an idle summer, the loss of labor which a strike would entail and the opposition of the powerful cotton exchange which would be aroused, the cotton unions have been allowed to remain at work. It is understood, however that the men are ready to quit work when the committee gives the word, although the instructions are that even if the order comes the men must finish any work which they have begun.

Merchants Will Close Their Shops.

Not a street car is running, no work is being done and the only sign of activity is in the wholesale grocery district against which the strike is principally directed. The new men there are willing to remain at work until violence is so general as to make it unsafe for them to continue. The stopping of their labor would lead to the closing of the wholesale groceries till the strike is well over, the merchants saying that they are ready to close from thirty to ninety days and fill their country orders direct from the west. The strike of the printers has the effect of closing all the newspapers except The Daily States, which the printers have been fighting for several years. There were reports that attempts would be made to stop the paper from appearing, but the place has been well guarded and the paper will be issued as usual.

Fighting Labor Proscription.

The proposition made through the governor, to arbitrate the question of hours and wages, but to leave the question of unionism entirely alone, has not yet been responded to by the labor side, but it is hardly thought that it will be accepted, as the cry of unionism is made the rallying cause of the labor bodies. The merchants also say that they will not recede further. Said President Odendahl, of the board of trade: "It is not unionism we are fighting, but the abuse of unionism and the dictatorial demand that none but union men be employed." The governor is keeping his staff within call and the militia is ready to come out at short notice.

Fears About the Gas and Water.

Governor Foster said at noon yesterday that there had been no change in the strike situation. In the event of a serious clash, resulting in rioting, the governor will be on hand to cope with the situation. He realizes the danger that is menacing all classes of the community and will prevent loss of life if it is within his power to do so. There is a widespread feeling as a result of a statement of the gas people that unless the utmost care is exercised dangerous explosions may follow the cutting off of the gas supply. People are also greatly worried at the prospect of a cutting off of the water supply, which would place the city at the mercy of the fire fiend.

THE MILITIA IN READINESS.

Influence of the Strike on Politics—Efforts for a Settlement.

Governor Foster has his militia in readiness for immediate action, but the belief is well grounded that no decisive steps will be taken until tomorrow, as any serious trouble yesterday or today would not only have complicated the election here, but in other sections as well. The idleness of such a large body of negroes and the desperation ensuing because of over two weeks' loss of earnings is feared now, and the Democracy will have a hard time to maintain its supremacy in consequence, as the crowds of strikers and the absence of street cars will serve to keep many of the better element away from the polls. In the meantime the governor is using every means to bring about an amicable termination.

Employers Make a Concession.

At his request the merchants made a concession and agreed to waive the demand that the strikers return to work before any arbitration takes place. They had already agreed to arbitrate upon the question of hours and wages, declining, however, to argue the demand that they employ none but union men, although they are willing to agree not to discriminate against union men. The governor then referred the agreement to the labor unions and they said it was too late to consider the matter Sunday night, but promised to meet yesterday morning and to give an answer by noon. Up to last night he had not received any answer. The merchants did not do anything yesterday but carry on their business as well as they could, and determine to stand firm upon their last proposition. They received strong promises of support from the lumbermen, millers and others.

Planters Oppose the Strikers.

Some of the largest planters of the state were in the city yesterday and said that the strike meant so much to them that they were willing to answer the first call for men and money sent out by the merchants. As soon as the election is over the real battle will begin and it is believed that the city authorities will throw off a good deal of the lethargy charged against them. Governor Foster held a conference with ex-Governor Nicholls, now the chief justice of the supreme court, and other prominent lawyers and it is said to be their opinion that under the law of the state the governor can step in to preserve the peace without waiting to be called on by the municipal authorities.

Waterworks Men Ordered Back.

The men are beginning to resort to violence in outlying districts and special officers will be appointed. It was ordered that the waterworks men strike as well as the electrical light men and gas men. The waterworks men were ordered back to guard against fire. The others, however, stay out.

Peace Proclamation Issued.

One centre of activity yesterday in the city was the city hall, where the mayor and his advisors spent the day. During the morning a proclamation was issued calling upon all persons to preserve the peace, and warning those present that any disorder or violence would be repressed by the sternest measures. The most serious feature of the situation was the suspension of the two lighting systems—gas and electricity—and some alarm was felt when the officers of the two electric light companies called on the mayor and said they thought they could furnish light if granted protection for men engaged to take the place of the strikers. This was readily promised.

Looks Much Like a Holiday.

The city had a holiday appearance nearly everywhere. Merchants say that a number of union men are willing to return, but the merchants did not propose to be made targets of by the unions until they were ready for a vigorous defense and so declined to take them back for the present. The strike also failed to affect the newspapers to the extent expected, and the only paper which has so far failed to appear is The Item, which is the official organ of the strikers, although that is also expected to appear this evening.

HAS BEEN THIRTY YEARS IN PRISON

Some Facts From the Life of an Aged Woman Crook.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Chief of Police George C. Tenney, of Elizabeth, was not born when Mary Doyle began her remarkable criminal career, and was a schoolboy when she committed her first theft in that town, so Mary was considerably surprised when, after an absence of thirty years, she was arrested in Elizabeth and, having given her name as Eugenie Hoffman, was addressed by the chief as Mary Doyle. She confessed her identity and talked a little about her career.

A Thief for Half a Century.

She is 69 years of age, and has been a thief for nearly half a century, thirty years of that time having been passed in prison. So far as her record is known she has never committed but one class of crime, sneak thieving. Her first appearance in Elizabeth was thirty years ago, when she sneaked into a room of a hotel just when an exciting piece of war news was being discussed, and stole a box of silverware. She was sentenced to three years' imprisonment for that. The day after Lincoln's assassination a Harrisburg bank lost a box containing $7,000 in greenbacks and $7,000 in government bonds.

Has Gone to Prison Again.

The theft was committed while the excitement over the news from Washington was so intense that the business was practically suspended. Her last conviction and sentence, prior to her return to Elizabeth was in Philadelphia. October 6, during the parade of the Elizabeth firemen, she was found by Mrs. Chapman rifling a dresser in her bedroom in her residence, 122 Broad street. She was sentenced Saturday to five years' imprisonment in the state prison.

WENT DOWN WITH THE TRESTLE.

Seven Men Take the Plunge and All Badly Hurt, Three Fatally.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 8.—The trestle spanning a forty foot ravine at Honey Brook broke yesterday, precipitating to the bottom ten loaded cars and seven men. The men were on their way to their dinner and while crossing the trestle the timbers gave way, precipitating train and men to the bottom. The loud noise made by the cracking timbers and tumbling miners attracted the attention of other workmen, who rushed to the scene. Willing hands hurried to the assistance of the unfortunate men.

Broke Every Bone in His Body.

Michael Karko was first uncovered. He met a horrible fate. Every bone was broken and his face was crushed beyond recognition. The following were taken out alive: Guiseppe Costellin, both legs broken and body badly bruised; Andrew Hoxicas, skull cracked and face cut; Michael Begatissa, fractured skull, arms and body crushed—will die; Vudanni Costafa, cut and bruised, injured internally; John Kodha, arm broken and back injured; John Baraska, chest crushed and four ribs broken—will die. All were removed to the hospital.

Watson Seems Somewhat of a Terror.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Governor Northen has ordered the military of the city under arms to be in readiness to go to Thompson, the home of Representative Watson, third party candidate for re-election. The mayor of the town telegraphs that Watson threatens violence this evening to the extent of burning the town. Many women have been moved out of the town and a state of terror prevails there. Watson is running for congress and the district is the only one in which anbody but a Democrat is really running.

Steamer Eight Days Overdue.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Nothing has been ascertained regarding the National line steamer England, now eight days overdue, although she was seen off Cape Race on Thursday last by the Montezuma. No signals were exchanged, notwithstanding she was apparently disabled. The sea tug Luckenbach was sent out Saturday to search for her. It is probable that she has drifted out of the course of incoming vessels. The England is a freighter and has no passengers aboard, except a dozen returning cattlemen.

The Lying "Fake" Operator.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Some "fake" operator started the story yesterday that Rev. and Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmage had disappeared and that it was understood that Mrs. Talmage was insane. The whole thing was a lie without a single thing to stand upon. Mrs. Talmage is in perfect health, bodily and mentally, and neither she nor her husband has "disappeared" in any degree.

Fatal Collision in a Tunnel.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—A freight and construction train came into collision in the tunnel under the "King's highway" on the Wabash road in the Western part of the city yesterday and Bat Carmody, a fireman, was so badly injured that he has since died. E. L. Hill, a brakeman, and John Murphy, an engineer, were slightly injured. Twelve cars were wrecked.

Went to the Ball to Get Even.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—Five negroes were shot at a ball Saturday night and will probably die. The affray occurred at a dance on Berry's plantation, six miles from the city. A gang of men who had not been invited to the ball went there to get even with those who were. A pitched battle ensued in which five men were fatally wounded.

Were Playing With a Pistol.

PUEBLO, Colo., Nov. 8.—Arthur Deshet and Victor Bench, each aged 13 years, were playing highway robber in an alley last evening, when Arthur was shot in the temple with a pistol and instantly killed by his playmate.

Snow in Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 8.—It was snowing and blowing throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas all yesterday. Six inches of snow have fallen, which in places has drifted badly.

MASSES FALLING FROM THE SKY.

Something About Meteors and of What They Are Composed.

An addition to our present knowledge of meteorites has been presented by Mr. J. R. Eastman, who furnishes a list of iron aerolites, together with a table of their weights and remarks as to the relative occurrences of iron and stony meteorites. According to this gentleman the ratio of weight of the former to the latter is as 1 to 12.23, and the aggregate weight of aerolitic iron which has been observed and discovered up to date on the American continent is about 153 tons. "If the above ratio be true in all cases," he says, "there should have been a fall of about 1,880 tons of lithic meteorites, or in all over 2,000 tons of aerolitic matter precipitated upon the earth."

Mr. Eastman offers the following theory to account for the apparent excess of iron over stony meteorites: "When a stony meteorite falls to the earth it breaks into many fragments, and the ruptured surfaces indicate the nature of the catastrophe. No case is on record where an iron aerolite showed any indication of having been twisted, broken or torn from another mass of the same material.

"The true type of meteorite which reaches the earth from outer space is probably similar to that which fell in Iowa county, Ia., on Feb. 12, 1875. This celestial visitor is composed almost wholly of lithic matter, but scattered through the mass are small grains of nickeliferous iron. This iron may exist in the stony matrix in all forms and sizes, from the microscopic nodule to the mass weighing several tons. When the lithic mass comes in contact with the earth's atmosphere the impact breaks up the matrix, sets free the iron bodies, and they reach the earth in the same condition, so far as mass and figure are concerned, as they exist in the original formation.

"In such cases it is probable that the stony portion of the original body is rent into such small fragments by the explosion that these would not reach the earth in any appreciable size. The larger the masses of iron the more complete would be the destruction of the original body, and the larger lithic meteorites would be those containing the smaller granules of iron."—Iron.

The Manners of "Society."

These geese in stays and starch ("society" people) are ignorant of the true philosophy of good manners, which may be compressed into a single sentence. The secret of good manners is an entire lack of self consciousness. If all men were born with a proper perception of justice bad manners could not exist. It may be somewhat vague, but the almost universal conception of justice is that it is the interest of the stronger, as Plato's sophist has it, and a moment's review of our codes of manners will convince one that this idea is at the bottom of all. All manners are bad which are built upon a substructure of injustice, either inflicted or suffered.

These "best people"—paupers in every essential of noble manhood—have elaborated a religion of which an immense cipher is the symbol. Their range of ideas is so limited as to merely correspond with their physical needs and indulgences, and they have invented (with a wisdom not common among geese and cockatoos) a code of manners which condemns all naturalness, individuality and thought as the brand of the parish.—New England Magazine.

Cardinal Wolsey's Taste for Antiques.

If Quentin Matsys had a picture on the easel, Wolsey was ready to purchase it. If there was a curious clock it was secured for him. His fondness for tapestry amounted to a passion. Trusty agents ransacked the continent to procure choice sets of arras, new and old, for the rising palace. If the owner generally preferred Scriptural subjects, as became a prince of the church, he also collected many hangings wrought with scenes from classic or mediæval story. Thus, while the walls of one chamber set forth the history of Samuel or David or Esther, those of another glowed with the labors of Hercules, the woes of Priam or the Romaunte of the Rose. In the rooms where he received visitors the tapestries were changed once a week.—Macmillan's Magazine.

Landor's Conversation.

Landor was a man who delighted to talk about his friends to his friends. Of Southey, I remember, he had much to say—things such as one loving brother might say of another. The name of Julius Hare was very frequently on his lips, while in his heart the memory of that pure minded man was canonized. Liberal and free in speech on religion and politics, before it was the vogue to be thus free, yet might Landor's friendships have been shared by an archbishop. It is reported of him that he said, "I enjoy no society that makes too free with God or the ladies."—Mrs. Crosse in Temple Bar.

A LESSON FROM BALAAM.

The story old of Balaam calls for contemplation;
Did he serve God in truth or practice profanation?
He calls the Lord his God and says he must obey him,
Although with wealth immense King Balak should array him.

But God's command, though plain, was not enough to hold him,
When drawn by proffered gain, against what God had told him;
His wish to go God grants, but yet with disapproval,
His word to bless abides and suffers no removal.

When this mysterious seer reached his destination,
With sacrifice he mixes heathen incantation.
He vainly tempts the Lord, but God doth never waver;
His gracious purpose still is in his people's favor.

The message most sublime was God's own proclamation:
No curse, but blessing waits on his own holy nation.
Not Balak's gold nor Balaam's guilty wish can change it,
For God's own purpose doth eternally arrange it.

All Balaam's worship was but heathen divination,
Which taught idolatry to Israel's rising nation;
He uttered heavenly truth as power divine constrained him.
And though a seeming prophet Satan still retained him.

That prayer so good for all, which came within his vision,
Does not reveal the man, nor speak his heart's decision;
Constrained he spoke for us those words of inspiration,
"Oh, let me die like righteous men and share their destination!"

Let us adopt the prayer, but shun his bad example,
Obey each one command, and call it guidance ample;
When one command is plain, it calls for no repeating,
And sin alone will seek some loophole for retreating.

—Ira Case in Presbyterian Journal.

A Knife in His Breast for Six Years.

Captain Philip Osmont, a native of the Island of Jersey, who has been a resident of Stafford county for several years, has had a remarkable experience. Before coming to America Captain Osmont was of the men who go down to sea in ships. A mutiny occurred on the vessel with which he was connected and a hand to hand conflict took place between the mutineers and the officers of the ship. During the fight a knife blade several inches long was driven into the right breast of Captain Osmont.

When the fight ended he drew the knife (as he supposed) from his breast and threw it overboard. He suffered greatly from the wound, but finally recovered through the careful nursing of his wife, who was on the ship with him. When Captain Osmont threw what he supposed to be the entire knife overboard he had simply caught the handle, which was loose, and threw that over the ship's side, leaving the long blade remaining in his breast.

Some time ago Captain Osmont suffered a good deal with pains, and supposing he had the rheumatism he consulted Dr. S. W. Carmichael, of Fredericksburg, who discovered the presence of the knife blade and extracted it. Dr. Carmichael is of the opinion that the case is quite a remarkable one, the knife having remained in Captain Osmont's body for six years. Dr. Carmichael still has the blade in his possession. It is a dangerous looking instrument 4½ inches long and one inch wide, and is covered with rust and dry blood. —Richmond Times.

No Comparison at All.

Overheard during the election in the Ealing division:

First Laborer—Well, Bill, are you going to vote for his lordship?

Second Laborer—No, I ain't. Wot I says is, we wants more workingmen in the 'ouse, plain misters, and not so many of your bloomin lords. Now, there was Disraeli, 'e was a fine man, 'e was.

F. L.—Yus, that 'e was.

S. L.—Well, now, look at that there Lord Beaconsfield. Wot a bloomin bad lot e' was! Why, there ain't no comparison.—London Globe.

There Is No Danger In It.

The best recommendation that a popular remedy can present is, it is safe in the hands of children. When we consider how many little ones are injured every year by finding the medicine bottle and taking an overdose, a remedy that contains no poison, is alone entitled to be called a great household medicine. That this is the case with Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure, the following is proof:

Wady Petra, Stark Co., Ill., Aug. 6, '92. Sylvan Remedy Co., Peoria, Ill.

Gentlemen:—We have sold Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure about two years and found it to be a good seller, giving good satisfaction, and we know that it contains no poison, for my little girl about two years old got hold of a bottle and drank half of it and it did not injure her in the least, but did her good. We can cheerfully recommend it to the public.

WANT EXPEDITION.

The Irish Tenantry Commission Gets to Work.

AN UNPLEASANTNESS AT THE START

Being in Somewhat of a Hurry They Refuse to Permit Cross-Examination and Thereby Raise the Ire of a Couple of Landlords' Solicitors, Much to the Satisfaction of the Irish Nationalists Present —Lord Clanricarde Refuses to Testify— Foreign News Items.

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—The scene in the hearing of the evicted tenants' commission yesterday when Justice Mathews refused to allow Lord Clanricarde's lawyer, Mr. Carson, to cross-examine the witnesses called by the commission was quite a sensational one, though brief. The purpose of Justice Mathews in ruling out cross-examination at this time is to expedite the proceedings and enable the commission to make at least a preliminary report by the end of January. The Nationalists present were so delighted at Carson's defeat that they could hardly be restrained from openly jeering at him.

O'Brien Couldn't Keep Quiet.

William O'Brien did remark in a tone loud enough to be heard all over the room: "Now you know the difference between a court of justice and a court of coercion." The joy of the Nationalists will be better understood when it is explained that Carson has been known for years as one of the most skillful and successful agents of the landlord. He has also been the leading crown lawyer in the prosecution of most of the trials of Nationalists and has been so accustomed to having his way with the judges that yesterday's experience was as novel as it was exasperating for him.

Lord Clanricarde Refused to Talk.

When Lord Clanricarde was called as a witness he declined to give any information. This is regarded as an indication that the Tory landlords mean to stand aloof and give the commission no assistance in its labors. J. Roche, M. P. for East Galway, testified before the commission as to the history of Lord Clanricarde's struggle with his tenants and the present position of the contest. Lawyer Carson, on behalf of Lord Clanricarde, wished to cross-examine Roche, but Justice Matthews, chairman of the commission, refused to permit him to do so, saying that witnesses for the tenants would be first examined, and then witnesses for the landlords, and that questions must be put through the commission.

Then It Was the Row Took Place.

Lawyer Carson then retorted that the inquiry was a farce and a sham, and that he would not prostitute his position as an advocate by taking any further action in it. Justice Mathews replied that Mr. Carson's remarks were impertinent and a disgrace to the Irish bar. William Kenny, M. P., who appeared for Smith Barry, the Tipperary landlord, indorsed what Mr. Carson had said, and Justice Matthews retorted hotly that Kenny was impertinent. Messrs. Carson and Kenny then retired.

MISCELLANEOUS FOREIGN NEWS.

A Society that Wanted to Take Chances for a Riot.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Anti-Popery association has applied to the police authorities for permission to have two floats follow the lord mayor's procession. One float was to illustrate the methods claimed to be used by the Roman Catholic church in the conversion of heretics. The other was a scene emblematic of the triumphs of Protestantism over the alleged tyranny of Rome. The police declined to allow any such demonstration, as the possibilities of a row are at present sufficient without adding an exhibition which would certainly cause a riot.

Why Ryder Was Pardoned.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 8.—Ex-Consul Henry B. Ryder was pardoned by the Danish government at the personal request of American Minister Carr, who, in making the request, acted upon instructions from the state department at Washington. The request was based on Ryder's advancing years and physical condition, he being a disabled veteran soldier of the Union army. The Danish public are indignant at the pardon of Ryder, against whom much feeling existed. Ryder was ordered to leave Denmark instantly.

Won't Live in Such Style Now.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Morning states that Henry Raymond, a well-known sporting man, was arrested on a railroad train at Liege, Belgium, Sunday, while stealing bonds valued at about £4,000. He lived in high style in London, moving in the best sporting and social circles and enjoying the proceeds of many larcenies. He belongs to a clique of American thieves well known to Paris and New York detectives.

Russian Aggression on Afghanistan.

CALCUTTA, Nov. 8.—It is reported from Gilgit that Colonel Yanoff, the Russian commander, forced the Somatash collision by striking the Afghan commander contemptuously on the cheek. The Afghan, enraged, fired his pistol. The ball struck Commander Yanoff's belt and wounded a Cossack standing behind him. A general melee followed in which the Afghans were killed without mercy.

Stood by the Government.

ROME, Nov. 8.—The returns of Sunday's elections for members for the chamber of deputies show that 184 government supporters and seventy-one members of the opposition were elected. Reballots will be necessary in seventeen districts, in which the government candidates stand the best chance of being elected.

Where Are Those Anti-Tobacco People?

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Asquith, the home secretary, has ordered that in the future disabled paupers or paupers engaged in obnoxious work, shall have the privileges of smoking and snuffing. Smoking rooms will be provided in the poor houses.

Important Methodist Meeting.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—An important meeting of the general committee of the Freedmon's Aid and Southern Education society of the Methodist Episcopal church was begun yesterday in Grace church. The committee has charge of the educational work of that denomination among the colored and white people in the sixteen southern states. On the committee are eighteen bishops, fourteen representatives from different parts of the United States and fourteen managers from the committee headquarters at Cincinnati.

Dropped Dead On the Floor.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 8.—Fred Smith, a farmer of Guilford, came here yesterday to spend the afternoon with a nephew. While sitting quietly in a chair he dropped to the floor dead.

Knew How to Use His Fists.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 8.—J. G. Beckwith, of Orangeburg, went to the South Carolina Military academy with two friends on Saturday and called for Cadet McClellan. When the cadet appeared Beckwith struck him with a riding whip. McClellan promptly let his fist fly and brought Beckwith to his knees. The two men grappled and when separated Beckwith had received severe punishment. The encounter arose over Beckwith not allowing McClellan to meet his sister last summer. Both belong to influential families.

The Esquiman Baby Is Dead.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The first child born on the grounds of the World's Columbian exposition is dead. Her space of life—instead of three score years and ten—was just seven days. The baby was born to the wife of Simon Manak, one of the Esquimaux brought here for the World's fair, and it was named Columbia Susan Manak.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Thursday night.

—S. M. Gantz came home last night to vote.

—The Board of Supervisors meet tomorrow.

Look out for Dad's Girl, Nov. 17, for it is "out of sight."

—Mrs. Jno. A. Benjamin of Douglas avenue is quite ill.

—Charles Cropsey cast the first vote in the second precinct.

Look for the picture of Dad's Girl tonight, at opera house.

—H. R. Bartlett was in Freeport on legal business yesterday.

—The judges took dinner at the polls, lunches being brought to them.

Uncle Tom's Cabin. Good singing and dancing. Good Orchestra, Thursday night.

—Miss Julia Hoban, and Miss Mollie Tague are visiting friends and relatives in Chicago.

—Hacks are flying everywhere and the doubtfuls are being brought to the polls this afternoon.

Uncle Tom's Cabin Thursday night; the best ever shown here. Chart now open at Truman & Co's.

—L. E. Wingert, cousin of City Attorney E. E. Wingert, was here from Chicago yesterday on business.

—D. F. Wadsworth and L. W. Raymond, of Ishpeming, Mich., are visiting at the S. M. Gantz residence.

—Fifty-seven voters marked their ballots in fifty-five minutes at the North Dixon voting place this morning.

—The arrangement between the factories to close at different hours was an excellent aid in getting out the vote.

—James Little after voting returned to Chicago on the afternoon train that he might hear the latest election returns.

So light is the spider's web that a pound weight of it will reach around the world, and then leave enough to reach from New York to San Francisco.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Perkins spent Sunday in Chicago with their friend Mrs. Starkey, and on Sunday evening Mrs. Perkins left for Rochester, N. Y., to visit for several months with parents and friends.

—We learn that the valuable St. Bernard dog, eight months old, belonging to Mr. F. A. Watson, was this morning shot on Mr. Watson's own premises by Abraham Whipple, who claimed that the dog had killed his chickens. The matter will be investigated and may cause the young man some trouble. The dog was a valuable animal, formerly the property of Mr. Endicott of Boston, and could not have been purchased for $400.

—As a result of the vote last night at the opera house, on the most popular and appropriate make-up among the young lady exhibitors, the first place was accorded to Miss Maxwell who represented the Electric Light Co.; second, Miss Gannon for O. H. Brown; third, Miss Eells for E. L. Edwards; fourth, Miss Strohm for Weaver & Co.; fifth, Miss Little for H. E. Donaldson; sixth, Miss Schober for the Riverside Shoe Co.; seventh, Miss Smith for D. S. Horton. The balance of the vote was scattering. The voting tonight may make a material change in the result

—The court room was about half filled last night at the "last Democratic meeting before the landslide." Three fair speeches were delivered by Messrs. Brooks, Dixon and Moritz Rosenthal. Prof. Hartwell being unable to be present. Candidate Brooks talked of old worn out Democratic doctrines; Moritz Rosenthal brought words of cheer from Chicago and Sherwood Dixon tried to keep up the party enthusiasm by exhorting his hearers to vote the Democratic ticket. On the whole the meeting did no harm, and no one has objection to the Democrats enjoying it.

A Sensational Arrest.

Sheriff McNamara, of Freeport, was in town yesterday and took back with him a young man of Dixon, who has committed the serious crime of forgery.

J. H. Holly, who was arrested, has been working for the Dixon Light and Power Company, and is well-known here. A short time ago three checks drawn on the Dixon National Bank were paid by Freeport banks to a young man who it is believed, was Holly, who came here from St. Louis. The first of these was for five dollars, and was cashed at the First National Bank, of Freeport. The other two for ten and fifteen dollars respectively, were cashed at the Freeport German Bank. When it was found that none of the principals and endorsers had accounts at the Dixon National and were mostly fictitious, the Freeport police telegraphed to Dixon and our efficient chief, Marshal Ball, located Holly as the guilty man and immediately arrested him.

Taking Dickens Down.

"I am a great admirer of the works of Charles Dickens, but I had a very poor opinion of the man," said L. C. Courtney, now stopping at the Laclede. "Dickens was a crank of a very offensive class. Many peculiarities may properly be excused in a man of genius, but boundless egotism and bad taste are not of the number. When the author of the 'Pickwick Papers' visited America he succeeded, by his boorish manners, in disenthralling thousands of his worshipers on this side of the Atlantic. He dressed 'loud,' and his manners were even more stunning than his dress. He was a great pedestrian, and took long tramps every morning. When he was in Washington I met him one morning on the steps of the Capital. With me was a young congressman from Tennessee, whom the great novelist had offended by his boorishness.

"That morning Dickens was in great good humor and full of talk. 'I have,' said he 'found an almost exact counterpart of Little Nell.' 'Little Nell who?' queried the Tennesseean. Dickens looked him over from head to foot and from foot to head before he snorted out, 'My Little Nell.' 'Oh,' said the Tennesseean, 'I didn't know you had your daughter with you.' 'I am speaking of the Little Nell of my fiction, sir,' resorted Dickens, flushing. 'Oh,' said the imperturbable Tennesseean, 'you write novels do you? Don't you consider that a rather trifling occupation for a grown up man?' Dickens snorted like a quarter-horse and went down the avenue like Colonel Bill Sterrett on his bicycle.—St. Louis-Globe Democrat.

ing a banner with the name of the firm represented, passed forward and back, and with a graceful bow out at the opposite wing. Each was greeted with applause. An adequate description of the toilets, many of them superb, would be impossible. The newspapers were all well represented. The grocers made an unique display of their merchandise, and crackers and candy and strings of dried fruit made a striking ornamentation to the gaily colored dresses of the handsome young ladies. The hair dresses and the boot and shoe-dealers were very appropriately represented. Dry goods merchants and millinery firms had some advantage in an unlimited choice of rich material, which was in every case effectively used. The drug stores found many glittering things with which to decorate their handsome young lady representatives, and the clothiers and tailors were not far behind. The ladies who represented the banks were richly arrayed, the display of coins and bills showing to good advantage against their drapery. But for richness of display, perhaps the jewelry firms were in the lead; the gold watches and charms in profusion of S. S. Dodge showed off magnificently against the black gown of Miss Lillie Beech, while the diamonds that decorated the graceful figures of Misses Genevieve Reynolds and Nan Hunt, representatives of R. J. Kerwin and G. O. Wendell, were enough to satisfy the ambition of a princess and make all the other young ladies envious. The displays of Alexander & Howell, hardware, and Camp & Son, furniture, were artistically personated by Misses Georgie Steel and Edna Carpenter. Miss Anna Baldwin, representative of Squires' box factory, was pretty well boxed around, while Florence Noble (City Steam Laundry) would have passed for His Royal Highness "Collars and Cuffs." Miss Schober (Riverside Shoe Co.) from the size of her shoe might have been mistaken for a Chicago young lady. The fiery costume of Miss Bessie Pankhurst with its extinguishers, was a good advertisement for J. V. and J. E. Thomas, while the Life Insurance of Charles W. Schick was graphically portrayed by Miss Laura Hawley. E. W. Smith, C. H. Hughes & Co., C. M. Huguet, The Grand Detour Plow Co., Chas. Dement, Paul G. Lord and C. A. Lucas were handsomely represented. May Depuy displayed the delicate decorative work done at Brink & Deeter's mill. Gertrude Murphy drove a team of lovely little girls hitched to a light wagon filled with flour and feed from Geo. D. Laing's. Bess Eells made a striking hit as a representative of the coal-black business of E. L. Edwards. The Dixon College was classically and most chastly and beautifully represented by Miss Lavina Rudberg as Minerva, the goddess of wisdom. Miss Florence Mulkins, one of the "Singers" that represented the business of T. J. Miller, with tambourine bangles and other musical hangers-on, sang a sweet song and received loud applause. So also did Miss Hattie Stroup, who in Swiss milk-maid costume sang for the Anglo-Swiss Condensed Milk Company most charmingly the song of the "Pretty Maid." Miss Allian Parks, who as appropriately represented the Fargo shoe Company, also added to the delight of the audience by a vocal solo.

In the tableau representations, exhibited with a reflection of colored calcium lights, Miss Mamie Downing formed a handsome picture of the photographic business of H. A. Brown. Miss Mary Wynn won applause by the dexterity with which she to relieved an urchin of an aching tooth, Dr. J. W. Stephen could scarcely have done it with less pain. The business of Truman & Co. was represented by a huge fan of wall paper, which parted in the middle to disclose to the audience Miss Florence Gantz arrayed in typical costume. The marble works of Latimer & Maywood were represented by a most beautiful statue of a lovely woman perfectly portrayed by Miss Lizzie Barge. The tableau called forth an enthusiastic encore, and the curtain was held up several minutes, during which trying ordeal Miss Barge was perfectly statuesque, not moving a muscle. The Grecian costume was skilfully draped, and the conception of the figure was artistic throughout. It was almost, if not quite equalled by E. A. Bartholomew's (the other marble dealer) representative, Miss Marie Squires, who represented the marble figure of "Faith clinging to the Cross." Perhaps the crowning tableau of the evening for bold originality and effective display was that of the Dixon Power and Lighting Co., represented by Miss Jennie Maxwell. This beautiful young lady was also arrayed in white. She bore on her head a coronet of incandescent lamps of red, white and blue glass, on her breast a large white lamp with reflector, and carried in her hand a wand surmounted with four other electric lamps. It was a very pretty display as she marched across the stage; but when near the back she faced the audience and bent gracefully forward as if bowing her farewell, by a skillful mechanical arrangement a connection was formed with the electric circuit, a surprise burst upon the audience, as every incandescent lamp about her person suddenly flashed into light. It was a most novel and brilliant display, and with it culminated the many pleasurable surpaises of the evening.

After an intermission of ten minutes, the final spectacular pegeant was formed, in which to the music of a grand march by the orchestra, the entire troupe of more than fifty of Dixon's most beautiful young ladies' in their gorgeous trappings come on at once and went through a series of graceful and skillfully performed evolutions. We venture the assertion, without fear of contradiction, that never before from the stage of Dixon has shown forth such a display of youth, beauty and wealth combined. The exhibition, with a change of programme, but with all its telling features retained, is to be repeated this evening.

Broke Her Record.

The boys are all laughing over a really good one today. It is on a well-known young Third street merchant who recently became fired with one ambition, to become the owner of a fast horse. He went to Prophetstown with a friend and bought one, and after a proper amount of training his purchase, a really fine young mare, took part Friday in a race in Quincy. Last night while he was among a group of friends he was handed a dispatch. That it conveyed bad news was already shown in his face.

"The mare has won," he said, "but a bad accident has happened to her!"

"What is it?" the crowd asked. He simply handed over the telegram, and this is how it read: "The mare wins; she has broken her record."—Sterling Gazette.

"The Song That Reached My Heart"

In Mr. Julian Jordan, America's most successful song-writer and vocalist, there is a combination of sentiment and music exceedingly rare. Witness his songs, in number upwards of one hundred, of which he is the author of both words and music, among which are the following that have attained a world-wide reputation: "The Song That Reached My Heart," "A Touch of Humanity," "That Melody Divine," "Just to be at Home," etc. Many of his songs has been published in Europe and translated into foreign languages. Mr. Jordan is a cultivated vocalist, and has a tenor voice remarkable for its sompathetic quality. He is one of the few singers who give the story and sentiment, combined with the music With Heywood's Celebrities at opera house, Nov. 18.

From the Sterling Gazette.

The young men of the Keystone band are great wags. Just now they have up rather a novel wager, strictly among themselves, on the result of next Tuesday's election. In the active membership of the band there are seven Republicans, seven Democrats and a lone Prohibitionist. Next Saturday afternoon the band will have such a parade as it never had before. In the fore will march the seven musicians who are on the losing side, in full uniform and with their instruments pouring forth a continuous flood of melody in glorification of the seven victors, who will be walking next behind with the dignity properly becoming distinguished guests of the day. The line of march will be from the city hall in Rock Falls to Sterling, east on Third street to Second avenue, countermarch to Locust street, thence to the Galt house.

The lone Prohibitionist, whichever way the wager may go, will carry the bag containing the crow.

A Local Canard.

The Dixon Sun last evening came out with an "extra;" a sort of night-before election razzle-dazzle, and among the other canards was the following, intended to make votes for its side:

WILL NOT VOTE FOR HARRISON.—THREE PROMINENT REPUBLICANS OF DIXON SO DECLARE.—The Sun has the names of three republicans who are free to admit they cannot vote for Harrison tomorrow. Two attorneys who have held office of trust, one having represented this district in the legislature and the other is at present city attorney. The third is a doctor and ranks high in his profession. The gentlemen refered to are Hon. S. H. Bethea, E. E. Wingert, Esq and Dr. D. B. Vaughn.

The above gentlemen would gladly have voted for Harrison but could not for the reason that the first is absent in Colorado and the others have moved from one voting precinct to another recently. We omit the black head lines which were so displayed as to catch the eye of the unsophisticated reader.

The TELEGRAPH might have announced last evening with great flourish of black head lines that "The editor of the Dixon Sun will not vote for Cleveland."

—The Steling Gazette has this about the opening of the Wallace House in Sterling, December 16, 1857, Moses Dillon having the ancient card:

The tickets sold for $3.00 each, and there are those still living in our midst that can recall the swell event in early Sterling society. There was a long list of committees. Sterling was represented by Col. H. Wallace, M. S. Henderson, B. G. Wheeler, Dixon by Hon. J. V. Eustace, Col. John Dement, Gov. A. Charters, Erie by C. C. Teats, Morrison by J. M. Cobleigh. W. A. Sanborn was on the floor committee. All of the boys and girls of of that date have now passed beyond, or are finding in their children a repetition of those good old days. But think of the great changes in local and world wide affairs since that long ago.

—Scribner's Magazine for November contains the second of its group of preliminary articles on "The World's Fair," this one being an account of "Chicago's Part in the World's Fair," by Franklin MacVeagh, one of the prominent citizens of Chicago, who writes about the enterprise without any bias, frankly stating that he "has no connection with the World's Fair management." His account of what Chicago has accomplished is a wonderful record of enterprise and successful achievement. He shows how that city has shouldered responsibilities which belonged to the United States Government Commission; how she has supplied eleven million dollars instead of five that it was expected she would furnish; how she has arranged a site for the fair which in extent, situation, plan, and adornment exceeds anything ever before attempted, and that she has provided buildings equally remarkable in size, variety, and artistic value. Mr. MacVeagh then pointed out how Chicago will adequately meet the question of transporting people to and from the fair grounds; how it will comfortably lodge any number of visitors who may seek the city, and how ample provision is being made for an abundant and perfectly pure supply of water.
